

Editorial line

Scientific mission

Revista Ingeniería UC is the main body for scientific and technological diffusion at Engineering Faculty of Carabobo University.

The Revista Ingeniería UC objective is the diffusion of scientific – technological works in all areas of engineering, as well as related sciences applied to engineering.

Revista Ingeniería UC is subscribed to Research Direction of Engineering Faculty. It is considered by all its professors as one of the most important patrimonies of the Faculty of Engineering. Its first volume appears in December of 1992. Founded by Dr. Edilberto Guevara in 1992 (currently Honorary Editor).

Thematic coverage

Revista Ingeniería UC will consider for its diffusion original and unpublished works (The authors must send the commitment letter), in Spanish and English. Manuscripts in engineering areas of all its specialties, but particularly in the areas of industrial, electrical, mechanical, civil, chemical and telecommunications; as well as the basic sciences applied to engineering: mathematics, physics, chemistry, computation, biology, environmental sciences, bioengineering, biotechnology, statistics, etc.

Revista Ingeniería UC forum

The target audience is made up of all researchers in the areas of science, technology, engineering and mathematics. In particular the researchers, professors and students of Doctorate, Master's and undergraduate in the areas of engineering and related basic sciences. This audience is extended to innovation and technological development areas managers of the industrial sector. This forum has covers local communities, University of Carabobo and their state of influence; national level, all of Venezuela; as well as international level.

All articles are reviewed by Editorial Committee and refereed, double-blinded, by Technical Committee and by specialists in the field.

Revista Ingeniería UC is published every four months.